Name: Dr. Rajesh.S

Designation: Professor, Department of CSE

Organization: Jeppiar College of Engineering, Chennai

Event details: Workshop on Working abroad training

Dr. Rajesh, a distinguished professor in the field of Computer Science and Engineering (CSE), recently conducted an insightful workshop focused on preparing students for international employment opportunities. With his extensive expertise and profound understanding of global job markets, Dr. Rajesh guided participants through essential aspects such as cultural adaptation, skill requirements, and professional networking strategies crucial for success abroad. His workshop not only equipped students with practical knowledge but also inspired them to pursue career paths beyond borders, fostering a deeper appreciation for global perspectives within the CSE community.

Ms. Kaveri, Assistant Professor of CSE, recently conducted a workshop focused on hazards and pipelining in computer architecture. Her session delved into the intricacies of identifying and mitigating hazards in pipelined processors, emphasizing the importance of optimizing instruction execution and improving performance. Participants gained practical knowledge on pipeline stages, data hazards, control hazards, and techniques such as forwarding and stalling to manage these issues effectively. Ms. Kaveri's expertise and clear explanations enabled attendees to grasp complex concepts and apply them in real-world scenarios, making the workshop a valuable learning experience for all involved in the field of Computer Science and Engineering

Event details: workshop on ethical reasoning

Ms. Pushpa, Assistant Professor of CSE, recently led a workshop focused on memory management in computer architecture. Her session provided a comprehensive overview of memory hierarchies, addressing key concepts such as cache memory, virtual memory, and memory allocation strategies. Participants gained insights into optimizing memory usage, enhancing system performance, and mitigating issues such as fragmentation and access latency. Ms. Pushpa's engaging teaching style and in-depth explanations enabled attendees to grasp the complexities of memory management effectively. The workshop proved instrumental in equipping students and professionals alike with practical knowledge essential for tackling challenges in contemporary computing environments.

Resource Person Name: Ms. Malathy.N

Designation: Professor, Department of ECE

Organization: Kongu Engineering College

Event Details: Workshop on Ethical hacking

Ms. Malathy, a distinguished professor in Electronics and Communication Engineering (ECE), recently led an enlightening workshop focused on ethical hacking. With her extensive knowledge and ethical expertise in cybersecurity, Ms. Malathy guided participants through the intricacies of ethical hacking, emphasizing responsible and lawful practices in cybersecurity testing and defense. The workshop covered essential topics such as penetration testing methodologies, vulnerability assessment techniques, and ethical considerations in digital security. Ms. Malathy's interactive approach and practical demonstrations provided attendees with valuable insights into safeguarding systems and networks against potential threats, equipping them with essential skills in the ever-evolving field of cybersecurity.

Organization: National Institute of Technology Silchar, Assam

Event Details: Dreaming and journeying forward together

Mr. Mohammed Abdulkhader, an assistant professor specializing in Electronics and Communication Engineering (ECE), recently hosted an inspiring workshop titled "Dreaming and Journeying Forward Together." This workshop aimed to cultivate a visionary mindset among participants, encouraging them to set ambitious goals and collaborate effectively towards achieving them. Through engaging discussions and practical exercises, Mr. Abdulkhader guided attendees in exploring their aspirations, identifying potential challenges, and formulating strategic plans for personal and collective growth. His workshop fostered a supportive environment where participants could share ideas, build networks, and inspire each other to pursue excellence in their academic and professional endeavors. Mr. Abdulkhader's passion for nurturing future leaders in ECE was evident in his motivational coaching and emphasis on teamwork, preparing participants to navigate their academic and career journeys with confidence and purpose.

Ms. Priya, an assistant professor specializing in Computer Science and Engineering (CSE), recently organized a transformative workshop focused on communication skills. Recognizing the critical role of effective communication in academic and professional success, Ms. Priya guided participants through practical exercises and interactive sessions aimed at improving verbal and written communication abilities. The workshop covered essential topics such as clarity in expression, active listening, and professional etiquette, emphasizing the importance of communication in fostering collaborative relationships and conveying technical ideas persuasively. Ms. Priya's hands-on approach and personalized feedback created a supportive learning environment where participants could refine their communication skills with confidence. Her dedication to enhancing students' communicative competence underscores her commitment to preparing them for future career opportunities in CSE and beyond.

Feedback from the participants

It was helpful to know how to speak in public without fear.

It was very helpful to know the importance of body language while speaking. Today's topic on Public Speaking is amazing.
